

Poison Prevention

Training Seminar

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 8, 2011, 8:30 a.m. - 12:30 p.m., FARGO
AT THE SCANDIA HOTEL (717 4 ST. N FARGO) - ROOM B3

The North Dakota Department of Health and the North Dakota Safety Council have joined together to offer a free Poison Prevention Train-the-Trainer Program to help reduce poisoning exposures in North Dakota. This program is designed to help educate safety advocates on poison prevention and give them the tools they need to share their knowledge with their businesses and communities.

Attendees will receive a free presenter kit with hand-out materials, evaluation tools and sample scripts for different audiences, along with other tools needed for effective presentations.

For more information, or to register, contact Diana Read at 701.328.4537 or dread@nd.gov.

DIRECTIONS TO TRAINING:

Participants can park in the Sanford Hospital (801 N Broadway) parking deck on the north side of the building. The Scandia Hotel is across the street from Sanford. Enter the Scandia Hotel through the main door and take the elevator to the basement. The meeting room, Scandia B3, is to the right of the elevator.

ATTEND THIS TRAINING TO:

- Learn how to reduce poisoning exposures occurring in your community.
- Help increase public awareness of the alarmingly high number of poisoning exposures in North Dakota and the resources of the Hennepin Poison Control Center.
- Receive a free Poison Prevention Toolkit and education materials to aid in educating your community.

Trainer: Kirk Hughes, Hennepin Regional Poison Center Educator

This course is approved by the Division of Emergency Medical Services for 4 hours of EMS continuing education.
