The Department of Health (NDDoH), who manages the Rape Prevention and Education Grant (RPE), is seeking to increase the use of evidence-based and evidence-supported strategies to prevent intimate partner and sexual violence in the state. To do this, the NDDoH created the NDDoH Sexual Violence and Intimate Partner Violence Prevention Toolkit. It houses prevention resources including comprehensive programs, community readiness activities, evaluation methods, and prevention work in ND.

The NDDoH funds two domestic violence/rape crisis agencies to implement primary prevention strategies in their communities, but the NDDoH realizes there is much more prevention work being done in ND. The NDDoH seeks to connect those doing primary prevention around the state to do the following:

- Share prevention strategies, activities and resources,
- Discuss potential collaboration and,
- Leverage resources
